

Ryan Druska Named Head Golf Professional

at Madison Golf Club

Madison Golf Club has named Ryan Druska their new Head Golf Professional following an extensive search by Madison Golf Club's Search Committee. Druska was previously the 1st Assistant Golf Professional at Spring Lake Golf Club since 2016. He also held positions at Johns Island Club in Vero Beach, FL and Skokie Country Club in Glencoe, IL. Druska looks to continue to bring his knowledge and passion for teaching and growing the game of golf from Spring Lake GC to Madison GC.

When asked what it meant to be hired as the new Head Golf Professional at Madison Golf Club, Druska responded, "I am ecstatic to have been chosen as the Head Golf Professional at Madison Golf Club. Madison is a club, rich in history, entering its 125th season with a membership that is proud of its facility and staff. I look forward to providing the Madison Membership a comprehensive golf experience and working with the New Jersey PGA for many years to come. I am excited to see colleagues and friends at the 2021 New Jersey PGA Assistant Match Play at Madison on September 20th!"

Darren Tapp, Madison Golf Club's Board of Governors President, added, "We are excited to have Ryan join us at Madison Golf Club in our 125th year. We believe that his overall enthusiasm for the game, commitment to player development, and strong organizational and management skills will provide our members with a high degree of professionalism for the foreseeable future".

For more information regarding Madison Golf Club, please visit www.madisongolfclub.org.

For more information regarding the New Jersey Section, PGA of America, please visit www.newjersey.pga.com.